SAT/SATII Test-Takers Who are Interested in a STEM Major and "Prepared" or "Near Prepared." "Near Prepared" is defined as needing 1 additional year of math and/or science coursework to meet the Common Core Standard (3 years of science and 4 years of math). "Prepared" is defined as meeting the Common Core Standard.

Data are for MA Public School SAT & SATII Test-Takers Who Graduated in 2010.

14,739 test-takers (37.4\% of 39,381 question respondents) were interested in a STEM major
10,630 test-takers were both interested in, and prepared for, a STEM major

- This is $27.0 \%$ of the 39,381 question respondents, or, $72.1 \%$ of the 14,739 STEM interested test-takers

1,820 test-takers were interested in STEM majors, but needed 1 more year of science and/or math to be prepared

- This is $4.6 \%$ of the 39,381 question respondents, or, $12.3 \%$ of the 14,739 STEM interested test-takers
- 229 , or $12.6 \%$, of these 1,820 "near prepared" test-takers in 2010 came from 10 high schools
- 536 , or $29.5 \%$ came from 35 high schools
- 45 high schools had 10 or more "near prepared" test-takers

Preparation and interest vary by the percentage of low-income students at a school:

| Low-Income Schools (High \% LI Students) |  | h-Income Schools (Low \% LI Students) |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Total Test-Takers | 11,583 | 11,023 |
| Question Respondents | 9,544 | 9,629 |
| STEM Interested | 3,880 | 3,214 |
|  | 40.7\% of LIS QR | $33.4 \%$ of HIS QR |
|  | 26.3\% of All STEM Interested | 21.8\% of All STEM Interested |
| STEM Interested & Prepared | d 2,297 | 2,540 |
|  | 59.2\% of LIS STEM Interested | 79.0\% HIS STEM Interested |
| Need 1 Year of Prep | 663 | 254 |
|  | 36.4\% of 1,820 Needing 1 Yr of Prep 28.9\% of LIS STEM Interested | 14.0\% of 1,820 Needing 1 Yr of Prep 10\% of HIS STEM Interested |

Of the 1,820 "near prepared" test-takers:

- 663 or $36.4 \%$ of these 1,820 came from low-income schools.
- 536 , or $29.5 \%$ came from 35 high schools
- 229 , or $12.6 \%$ (i.e. 1 in 8 of the near-prepared test-takers) came from just 10 high schools
- 45 high schools had 10 or more near-prepared, but STEM-interested, test-takers
- 823 or 45.2 \% of these 1,820 were interested in health professions & clinical sciences
- 361 or $19.8 \%$ were interested in engineering & engineering technologies/technicians
- 259 or $14.2 \%$ were interested in biological & biomedical sciences
- 126 or $6.9 \%$ were interested in computer & information sciences

Calculated from another direction:

- 823 , or $13.4 \%$, of the 6,120 test-takers interested in health professions & clinical sciences were "near prepared"
- 361 , or $11.1 \%$ of the 3,266 test-takers interested in engineering & engineering tech were "near prepared"
- 259 , or $10.8 \%$, of the 2,405 test-takers interested in biological sciences were "near prepared"
- 126 , or $14.3 \%$, of the 883 test-takers interested in computer sciences were "near prepared"

Other stats:

- $\quad 55.7 \%$ of the 1,820 "near prepared" test-takers were female and $44.3 \%$ were male
- $13.1 \%$ of female test-takers who are interested in a STEM major are "near prepared" compared to $11.5 \%$ of male test-takers
- $17.7 \%$ of Black test-takers who are STEM interested are "near prepared" compared to $15.4 \%$ for Latino, $11.4 \%$ for White, and 11.2\% for Asian test-takers
